not only is it an elegant free font for signs, but it also comes with a variety of ligatures (e.g. "č" — czech lowercase letter "č"). this font family is commonly used for signage and branding. many of the glyphs come with visual alternatives. if you know a little bit about type design and type history, then you are aware that many typefaces have three or more major design styles. such letter forms have to be distinguished using a mark (a small symbol). sometimes these styles have to be kept separate in order to preserve their characteristic look and feel. mark the individual styles in the style set panel, thereby enabling this distinction. this neat typeface is developed by the original designer, mark van bronkhorst. this is a technical typeface that has impressive glyphs and interesting characters to be used anywhere such as on your website. keep in mind that lettering and logos should be consistent and if not; they may get confusing or misinterpreted. ff din font and ff good font are the most similar fonts to this typeface. function: this is a dual-function feature, which uses two input methods to give the user access to ornament glyphs (e.g. fleurons, dingbats and border elements) in the font. one method replaces the bullet character with a selection from the full set of available ornaments; the other replaces specific lower ascii characters with ornaments assigned to them. the first approach supports the general or browsing user; the second supports the power user. the user inputs qwwwwwwwwwe to form the top of a flourished box in adobe caslon, or inputs the bullet character, then chooses the thistle dingbat.
